

NHS Data Centre Transformation Consultancy

NHS Challenges

Data centre infrastructure has a critical role in the NHS, providing the platform for core IT services. However, many environments are underpinned by aging technology and diverse workloads that complicate service delivery. Trusts want to modernise to meet evolving demands but are unsure how to unite complexity with adoption of modern technologies and cloud services effectively.

What does our Transformation Consultancy provide?

CAE will independently assess your environment and understand your organisational needs. We will use intelligence gathered to help build a sustainable hybrid cloud strategy that ensures responsible cloud adoption and effective use of resources.

This will be reinforced with a technology roadmap that establishes your data centre transformation journey.

Consultancy Scope

CAE's hybrid cloud strategy consultancy is delivered by senior technical consultants from our data centre team using a proven methodology.

We will kick-off with a workshop to outline and agree the core drivers and organisational objectives that will form the foundation for your future strategy.

We will then undertake a series of interviews with key stakeholders in your organisation to build a clear picture of the current situation and capture fundamental business and technical requirements.

The information collected is used to produce a tailored high level strategy document.

The document will present our findings and recommendations for your future strategy. It will provide a realistic technology roadmap that allows you to modernise your data centre responsibly in a timeframe that achieves your goals.

The report will be supported by a structured session to field questions and explain the report's findings and recommendations.

Next Steps

Once the strategy has been established and you will be ready to undertake detailed and target technical baselines to build a detailed plan for data centre modernisation.

This will build upon the knowledge already gained and directly align to your strategy, enabling confident decision-making and justified change activities to achieve a transformed operating model.

Cost

The consultancy service is orderable directly through NHS SBS Cloud Solutions Framework, Lot 1. An initial consultation is completed to discuss the correct approach so you gain the most value from the service.
